Safecrackers Get $2,000 At Welsch Lumber Co. Sauerkraut Jamboree Aug. 26

Burglars broke into the Welsch Lumber Co. office on Wolf road, Mokena, last week and after forcing a vault door made off with some $2,000 in checks and cash. Inasmuch as the checks were endorsed for deposit only they were valueless to the thieves.

The burglars caused damage amounting to several hundred dollars in breaking into the vault. Investigators said that the thieves apparently tried to break a hole thru the vault wall but gave up attacked the door instead.

The combination dial and a part of the lock were broken off and the door opened. The cash and checks were in a safe inside the vault but the door of that was not locked. In getting the safe door the burglars are said to have introduced a new tool into the yegg trade — a butterknife. Such an implement was left behind and apparently was the only tool the burglars brought with them. The sledge hammers used were the property of the lumber firm, according to Sheriff's Deputies Robert Kapella and Arthur Schultz.

The break-in was discovered at 7:30 on Wednesday morning of last week when employees reported for work.

The thieves ransacked desks and various papers were found strewn about the office.

N. Lenox, Lemont Couples Injured In 2-Car Crash

Two persons from New Lenox and a couple from Lemont were injured around midnight last Sunday as a result of a two-car collision at 143rd and Ridge ave., Orland Park. Three of the injured were admitted to Christ Community hospital at Oak Lawn.

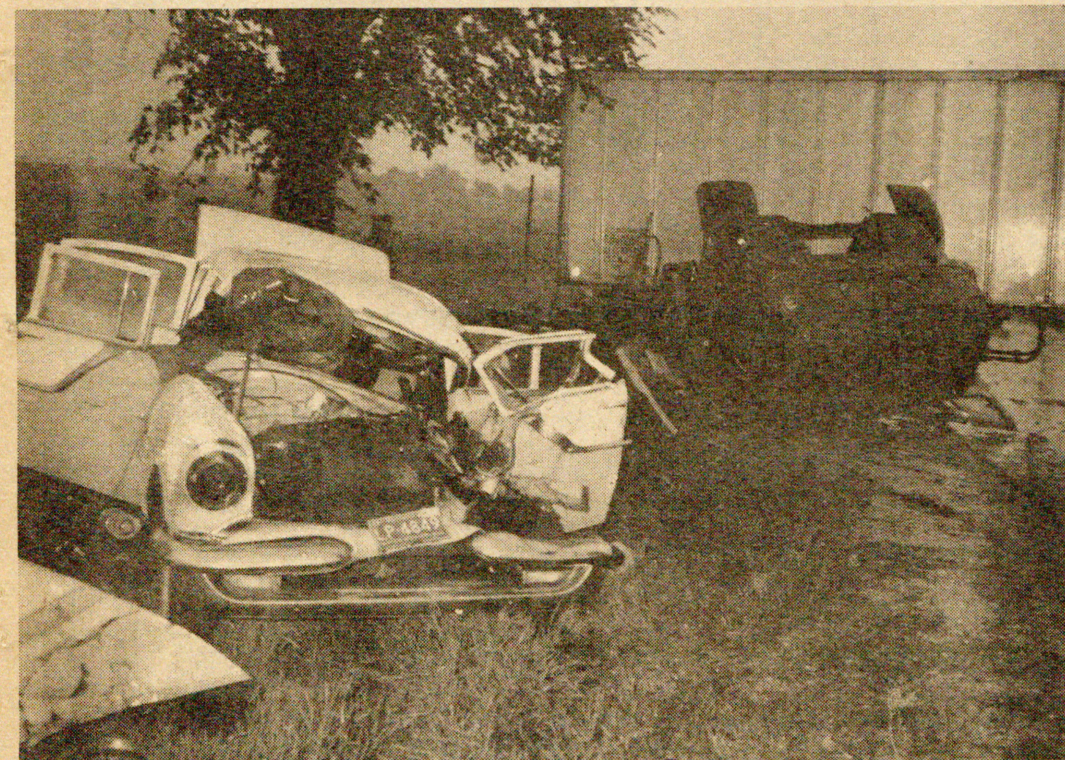

Those hospitalized: Walter L. Kazich, 20, of 150 Lemont St., Lemont; his wife, Jeanette, 19, and Mary Johnson, 19, of New Lenox.

Miss Johnson was a passenger in a car driven by James Tomany, 21, also of New Lenox, according to the Cook county police report covering the accident.

The Kazich car was traveling west on 143rd street, Tomany, according to the report, was heading north on Ridge ave. and at the 143rd street intersection plowed into the side of the west bound vehicle.

Tomany was taken to the hospital for a check-up but was later released. He was given two traffic tickets, one charging him with running a stop sign and the other charging failure to yield right of way.

Tanganyika was administered by Britain as a League of Nations mandate until 1946 when it became a United Nations trust territory. The country won internal self-rule May 1 and will become fully free Dec. 28.

SEMI-TRAILER JACKKNIFED on wet pavement and as a result seven persons are in St. Francis hospital at Blue Island. The accident occurred late Monday afternoon at Ridge ave. and U. S. 6. Six of the injured are members of a Saginaw, Mich. family and the other is the driver of the truck. This picture was taken by Howard Braasch, of Orland Park, a surveyor and engineer, who arrived at the scene moments after the crash which was around 5 p.m.

Frankfort Officials Inspect Treatment Plant

Members of the Frankfort village board occupied more than an hour of their regular meeting Monday night with a complete tour of the sewage plant during a heavy rainstorm.

Returning to the village hall, sodden and soaked, board members expressed satisfaction of their observance of the plant, especially during the heavy rain. Accompanying members on the tour were Robert Hamilton, village engineer, and Vic Eisenbrandt, plant superintendent.

Humorous sidelight of the tour was the arrival of Hamilton at the meeting in Village Clerk Walter Pfaff's clothes. Pfaff and Hamilton became so wet during the tour that it was necessary to change the dry clothing. Hamilton found Pfaff's trousers and house slippers at odds with his dimensions ... but his comment was, "They're dry, even if they don't fit too well."

Dr. T. J. Gunhouse, veterinarian, presented architect's plans for an office and clinic which he wants to erect on his piece of property next door to his home, 214 Center Rd. Dr. Gunhouse explained that the building will be of brick construction, 30 by 40 feet, with a full basement.

He had asked the zoning board of appeals to reclassify the area from a residential zone to a business zone. This request was denied by the zoning board, on the basis that parishioners from St. Peter's Evangelical and Reform church are objecting to the rezoning.

Dr. Gunhouse said, "I have been practicing in my home for seven years, before Frankfort had any zoning. I just want to continue the same process, only in a building of its own, instead of my house."

He pointed out that there will be no boarding of animals of kennel facilities. The capacity for keeping animals will be limited to five dogs and this will be because they are ill and need treatment, he said.

Dr. Gunhouse said the reason for wanting to build next door to his home is the convenience of late hour calls for sick animals. Estimated cost of the structure is $17,000 not including the lot.

Representing St. Peter's church board at the meeting were Attorney Sherrill Weisbrodt and Grant Geuther. Weisbrodt pointed out that the church was objecting to rezoning for business, because this would open the way for further business in the present residential area.

The board tabled further decision on the problem until Dr. Gunhouse meets with St. Peter's church board on July 1. Dr. Gunhouse then requested a re-appearance at the July 17th village board meeting.

Remainder of the meeting was devoted to reviewing complaints from residents about their property since the installation of sewer facilities. These complaints were recorded by Hamilton in order that he might check them personally.

Routine bills were approved for payment including a bill of more than $800 for D'Andrea Construction company.

ICC Will Hear Francis Rd. Crossing Case On June 27

The Illinois commerce commission has set June 27 as the date for a hearing at which Will county and New Lenox township officials and residents and representatives of the Wabash railroad are to show why the Wabash railroad crossing on Francis road should or should not be guarded by safety gates or warning signals.

This is the first time the ICC has given consideration to a situation that area residents have been viewing with deep concern for the past two years.

Francis road crossing on three sides, it was pointed out and the trains are traveling at high speed.

Freight trains traveling at night are especially dangerous, it was said, because approaching motorists who arrived at the crossing found it difficult to see the cars until practically upon them.

School buses are among the vehicles that use the Francis road crossing.

The hearing is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. at the commission's office at 160 N. LaSalle at Chicago.

A message to Chicago Housewives from the Dairy Farmers who Supply Chicago

OUTDATED: DATED MILK

The truth about a law that should have left town with the buggy whip

Once, before modern refrigeration, the dating of milk was a worthwhile public safeguard.

Now, it is a costly, unnecessary obstacle to the plentiful supply of fresh, wholesome and pure Grade A milk you have a right to expect.

The U.S. Public Health Service and the Illinois Department of Health have repeatedly recommended that milk dating be repealed in Chicago. Both cite the extremely high quality of milk supplied to Chicagoans. They state that in Chicago, "such requirements have no public health significance... and serve only to increase the cost of a very high grade product to the consumer. Proponents of the dating requirements usually are supporters for other reasons."

While it seems reassuring to see the Date on Milk Containers,
Here are the Facts about this Archaic and Ineffectual Ritual

YOUR HEALTH: "...the regulations requiring the dating of milk are more disadvantageous than advantageous in protecting the public milk supply."

United States Public Health Service

MILK QUALITY: "...There is no evidence to indicate any relationship whatever between the dating requirement and milk quality or the public health."

A. C. DAHLBERG, Professor, Dairy Industry
Cornell University

MILK FRESHNESS: "Regardless of the outcome of the bills pending, we will assure that each drop of milk sold to the citizens of Chicago will remain pure, wholesome and fresh."

DR. SAMUEL ANDELMAN, Chicago City
Health Commissioner

THE EXTRA COST: "Milk dating results in double deliveries to some stores... twice the use of hours and equipment necessary. It causes containers to be filled, then emptied and thrown away. In addition, because of the date deadlines, much of the work must be done during hours that call for premium pay. All of this extra cost must be passed on to the consumer."

FRED NONNAMAKER, Exec. Secretary
Associated Milk Dealers

Milk dating is misleading. With today's modern milk handling facilities, the date on the cap or container has nothing to do with the wholesomeness, purity and freshness of milk! Not only does it inconvenience consumers with artificial shortages, but the added costs must be paid by the consumer. As far back as 1934 the U. S. Milk Ordinance Code has excluded milk dating requirements and, in fact, has recommended that they be repealed where they exist.

You can help Chicago Dairy Farmers continue to supply you with the best possible fresh milk at the lowest possible cost. Support House Bill 1186 and Senate Bill 834. Help modernize Illinois laws to keep them in step with modern technology. They will stop the misleading practice of milk dating.

"TODAY, THERE IS NO PUBLIC HEALTH SIGNIFICANCE TO THE DATING OF MILK CONTAINERS"

GOV. NELSON A. ROCKEFELLER, Governor of New York (from a statement made when he signed a bill to discontinue milk dating in New York, 1960.)

Governor Rockefeller also stated that: 1. Without container dating, there is the same assurance of a wholesome supply of fresh milk. 2. Container dating misleads the purchaser as to the fresh and wholesome quality of milk. 3. Container dating increases the cost of an essential food product. 4. Container dating often makes store milk unavailable to late shoppers. 5. Elimination of container dating can be accomplished without hardship to those employed in milk distribution. 6. Elimination of container dating is properly a matter of State concern.*

Last year, New York eliminated dating; 5 months ago, Louisville, Ky., eliminated dating; 2 weeks ago, Cleveland, Ohio, eliminated dating. No city or state has added dating requirements since 1938! Almost all major cities have eliminated dating—or never had it!

*For a complete discussion of these points by Governor Rockefeller, send your name and address to The Milk Foundation of Chicago, 28 E. Huron Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Help keep Chicago up to date... to help us continue to supply you with the highest quality fresh grade A milk in the nation. Support repeal of old-fashioned milk dating laws.

Hope For Crossing Protector

We are glad to note that the machinery has been set in motion which we hope eventually will result in the installation of automatic warning signals at the Francis road crossing of the Wabash railroad.

A hearing is scheduled before the Illinois commerce commission at Chicago on June 27 at which the subject will be introduced. While technically the ICC is the instigator of the hearing and has notified the Will county highway department and the Wabash railroad to appear, it was the highway department, headed by James McCarthy, county engineer, that got the case started.

The fact that a hearing is called does not mean that any immediate action can be expected toward remedying what everyone agrees is a dangerous situation. These matters take time. There are many technicalities that have to be disposed of and undoubtedly there will be considerable argument. County officials are confident, however, that eventually protection will be provided for the crossing.

Supervisor John E. Francis, of New Lenox is giving the project his full support as are other town officials. They would like to see safety gates installed at the crossing but whether the ICC will go along with that remains to be seen.

The railroad has repaired the crossing so that it is smoother that doesn't make it less dangerous.

Four persons have been killed on this crossing in a year and a half, which is four too many.

The area served by Francis road is growing steadily in population which means that traffic will increase in proportion. This means that the chances of further fatalities will rise unless something is done to warn those approaching the crossing.

Those traveling west cannot see a train coming from the north until they are practically on the tracks. This condition prevails winter or summer. Persons traveling east in summer and fall, find their view of the tracks north and south is obscured by growing crops.

There is talk that even with early approval of a crossing guard by the ICC a year or more may pass before installation is completed.

We believe that it can be done in much less time if a lot of red tape is dispensed with and we hope this is done. If speed of endeavor will save lives, by all means let us have it.

Plan now what you will do in case of an auto accident: As the number of automobile accidents increases year by year, it becomes increasingly important that each of us knows what to do in case of a mishap. The time immediately following an accident is crucial because those involved are often shocked and confused, and those injured require attention.

The party at fault in an auto accident may be subject to both a criminal charge and a civil action for money damages. Each of us, for his own protection and for the protection of the injured, should prepare in advance a considered plan of action to follow should he become involved in an emergency of this type.

an automobile accident occurs is to stop and give aid to the injured. If the injury is serious, a doctor or ambulance should be called or other arrangements made to transport the injured person to a hospital. Meanwhile he should be made comfortable. If it is nighttime, warning signals should be placed around any obstruction on the road. Waxed cardboard milk cartons will burn long and bright enough to serve this purpose until the police arrive.

Each person directly involved in the accident is required by law to remain at the scene of the accident until the injured are cared for, to give his name and address to the person injured or to the driver or occupants of the other car, and to exhibit his driver's license upon request.

COLLECT INFORMATION
Assume that you are the driver or occupant of a car directly involved in the accident. In order to preserve your rights, you should take the following steps as soon as possible after the accident. Write down the license plate numbers of all vehicles involved. If possible ask the witnesses for a statement regarding the details of the accident, and jot it down. Diagram the scene and the

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN
"I see by the papers, "observed Jefferson Throttlebottom, "that a clerk in one of the hush-hush bureaus at Washington who was reported missing from home turned up at a race track in Delaware. That figures!"

Some 10 days had passed since Jeff had graced this office with his presence. Between hot weather and storms, he explained, he had been spending most of his time indoors.

By the judicious use of air conditioning and cooling drinks; a bit of extra shut-eye and a dip into books, magazines and newspapers, with a tussle now and then with radio and TV, he had managed to while away the time.

And the way he absently drained my tobacco pouch into his and helped himself liberally to the cigars gave all indications that he was getting ready for another home stand.

"Yes Sir," Jeff went on, "it does not surprise me to learn that a federal employee at our nation's capital turned up at a race track. If not at a track then the next best place to look would be the stands where the Form and scratch sheets are sold or at the book-makers, altho such a task would be akin to hunting a needle in the proverbial strawstack."

"Washington, D. C. probably has a heavier concentration of horseplayers than any city in the country," Jeff declared. "Some persons work to eat, some to send their kids to school, some to buy automobiles, some to clothe themselves in the latest fashions but it always seemed to me from the people I met -- that most of the government workers in Washington really work in order to play the horses. "I had a turn at the trough in Washington once," Jeff went on, "and I know that was where my money went and the same thing was true of most of the people I knew. But after all, if one made contact with some of the bottom-drawer people in some of the foreign embassies one could pick up some very fine potables at very low prices, so for what else did one need money?"

"I will say this," he continued. "There is a lot of work to playing the races and it was a good thing that one had a job where there was little to do. If one went out for an occasional evening on the town he could do it with a clear conscience because he knew that if he didn't get his handicapping done at home he could do it in the morning at his office."

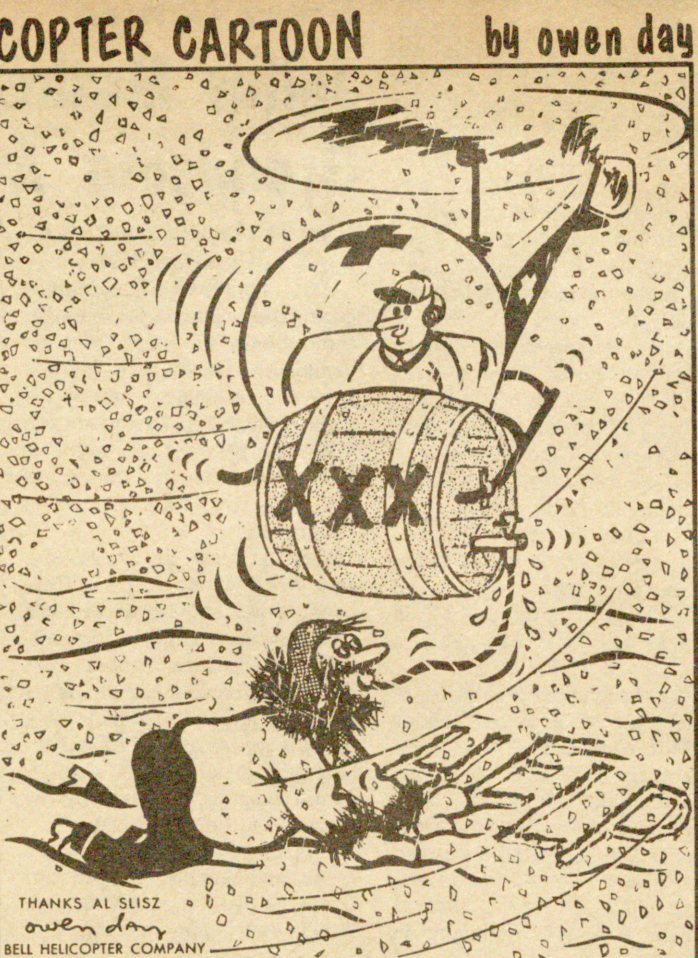

"And it was easy to make a wager. In most of the buildings it was possible to find a number of bookies so one could walk in the rain to make a bet and never wet his feet."

"I have often wondered, "Jeff went on, "if some of the people who worked on ciphers and codes had a special flair for handicapping. If they did I never heard of it nor did I ever hear that any of the big wheel mathematicians called in for the nuclear program were position of the cars and persons involved. Make notes on conditions, such as: weather, traffic signals, time, and skid marks. Jot down your own recollection of how the accident occurred. These written notes may prove invaluable to you after the accident.

Since you are involved in the accident, it usually will be to your benefit to make no statement whatever about it until you have had time to straighten out your thoughts and to consult your lawyer.

No statement is required by law either at the scene of the accident or at a police station.

any better handicappers than the clerks. In fact some of the clerks were better. I knew a couple of lads who knew as much about bloodlines and habits of the horses involved as top writers for the Thoroughbred Record, and enough knowledge of jockeys, trainers and the operation of stables to give them that extra edge in figuring out a horse's chances.

"But there is one thing you can't figure -- racing luck. So many things can happen in a horse race to wreck the most careful calculations. A horse may not like the going, his shoes may be uncomfortable, he may be off-feed or got up that morning with a headache. Maybe he is nervous, too nervous for a good effort; maybe he doesn't like his jockey, maybe the jockey has weak wrists, weak nerves... a weak head. Maybe the horse gets pinched off, maybe he gets bumped, maybe the jock lets the horse's head down and he goes off stride, maybe... thunderous so many things can happen that may decide the winning of a race besides the running qualities of a horse that I sometimes wonder if those who shut their eyes, jab a pin thru a race program or list of entries and play that horse aren't doing just as well as the careful handicapper."

"It probably would be surprising to learn the number of pin choices that pay off. And when you get right down to it such a method of selection should work as well as any system, or a hot tip, or information sold by touts. "I understand from the papers that this clerk that was missing and later was found at a race track was in a spot where they deal in security. Maybe he is some kind of a guy that figures codes. Maybe he has figured out something that gets him thru to the horses themselves. At least he won a daily double that paid over $100."

"I think that if one could just talk to a horse before a race and find out if he really feels like running and intends to do so regardless of trainers instructions to the jock one would be in a better position to place his wagers. Incidentally, Admissions of fault hastily made may be regretted later on when your recollection sharpens or when the full facts become known to you.

Beware of solicitations from persons who "chase ambulances". Report any such advances to the local bar association.

REPORT OF ACCIDENT
If the accident results in injury to any person or to property over $100 the law requires that the driver of any vehicle involved file a written report of the accident on a form obtainable from the police. This report must be filed at a police station within 10 days after the accident. It is confidential and may be important in assuring you that the other driver posts sufficient security to pay for your losses.

Immediately notify your insurance company of the accident, in order to protect your right to collect under your insurance policy. Do not make or sign statements about the accident, or sign releases for money, until you have obtained competent legal advice. Remember that until you know and understand the full facts surrounding the accident and the extent of injuries suffered, no intelligent adjustment of claims can be made.

(This column is written to inform and not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without consulting his attorney. Even a slight difference in the facts may change the result under the law.)

I notice that if one places wagers at a handbook he is gambling but if made at a track they are contributions toward improvement of the breed of running horses.

"But to get back to getting first hand information, literally from the horses mouth, "Jeff said, "the only person I ever heard of who claimed to get his tips that way was a psychiatrist. He would go to the paddock before every race for a chat with the horses, he claimed, and from the size of his bankroll on a couple of occasions when I saw him in action the horses weren't holding back, they were really leveling."

"He passed the information on to me on a couple of races but I was too smart to fall for that," Jeff continued mournfully. "Here," I said to myself, "this head-shrinker is just having fun and games."

"The first horse he gave me romped in at 8 to 1. Pshaw! I argued with myself, 'oneswallow does not make a summer nor one race a talking horse.' "Then the other horse he gave me -- this one had told him he was a sure winner -- came in and paid $58.50 for a $2 ticket."

"Well, -- I didn't have anything on that one either. After all, horses can't talk and anyone who believes they do has a tile loose upstairs. I had been standing down by the paddock telling my experience to a friend when the head-shrinker came up and stood looking at the horses. One of them was shaking his head and making noises. The doctor seemed to listen and then turned to me: "This colt here tells me there's no use in telling you who will win this one, that you have passed up two good ones already. He also says that you must be nuts, and he may be right altho I would not venter an opinion unless consulted and for a fee of course."

"Well, son," and Jeff got to his feet, "I don't suppose that if this security fellow did figure out a way to communicate with horses that it would ever be made public. But I do wish he would let the government in on it. With such a gimmick they could abolish income tax and operate off the winnings at the race tracks."

Auto sales are reported as doing very well. Chrysler Corp. is the subject of a special report by Capital Gains Research Bureau. They report that if Chrysler had Ford's profit margin 8.17 per cent of sales in 1960, it would have earned $27.58 a share and if it had General Motors margin of 7.5 per cent, it would have earned $25.35 per share last year. Chrysler had a profit margin of 1.1 per cent in 1961 and per share earnings of $3.61.

READ PSALM 91:11-16
What time I am afraid, I will trust in thee, (Psalm 56:3). Many years ago I was impressed by the story of a miner's son whose daily task it was to carry his father's lunch to him at noon. In order to reach him, the little fellow had to pass through a dimly lighted and, to him a frightening area. Other workers regularly heard him repeating over and over: "What time I am afraid, I will trust in thee."

When we become adults, fears of some physical dangers generally leave us, but others replace them. We fear personal failures and wrong decisions. We fear that we may fail in directing our children properly toward the straight and narrow path, or that they will succumb to temptations they face on every hand.

Oh, the strength-depleting fears and anxieties we could avoid if only we would exercise the simple faith of the miner's son! May we never lose touch with the sustaining, protecting power of our loving Father in heaven.

PRAYER: Our Father, give us, we pray, such a close walk with Thee that our fears may be replaced by the comfort and joy of Thy holy presence. In Jesus' holy name we pray. Amen.

Business & Finance

By: MAURICE P. ANGLAND
The cyclical stocks are now receiving considerable attention from financial writers and investment letters of brokerage firms. They express belief that cyclical industries are now in the early phase of impressive improvement in earnings.

Industrial Revolution was sparked by a shift from hand looms of textiles to factory looms on the invention of mechanical looms. This was automation which effected the lives of a large percentage of the populace. The date of start of the Industrial Revolution is usually put at about 1850.

Prior to this time all suits, shirts, etc. were made from hand loomed textiles.

Since the start of the Industrial Revolution, the worker has been able to substantially increase his earnings by producing more and better items at lower prices. By "lower prices" we mean the purchaser can buy the particular items at a lesser cost in terms of his own man-hour production payment. In complaints about prices, we often do not think of the fact that the test of desirability of a new production machine is whether it will produce more and better items at lower costs in terms of man-hours of the ultimate purchaser.

For the last century we have been going thru business cycles with rapid changes in production processes thru invention of new machines. The picture has become quite complex thru added factors such as political actions that effect the purchasing power of the dollar and also governmental actions regarding interest rates, housing, etc. that become political objectives.

Thru better knowledge of the business cycle and faster receipt of information we have been able to meet the problems of the business cycle and avoid rapid inflation and depression periods. However, the industrial productive capacity will likely continue to expand with uneven tempo.

Cyclical stocks are usually defined as those stocks whose market swings are about the same as the curve of general business. Mines, steel and machine tool, packaging, Corrugated paper, etc. are examples.

When business starts to turn down in its cycle, those firms such as noted above, are the first to feel the pinch of slower sales. Conversely, as the business cycle turns up, they receive greater attention due to the fact that their profit margins increase rapidly after the sales reach what is called the "break even" point.

It would seem that there is general agreement that the low point of the recession has been reached and general business on its way to higher levels. Many economic writers are predicting that 1962 and 1963 will be boom years.

Auto sales are reported as doing very well. Chrysler Corp. is the subject of a special report by Capital Gains Research Bureau. They report that if Chrysler had Ford's profit margin 8.17 per cent of sales in 1960, it would have earned $27.58 a share and if it had General Motors margin of 7.5 per cent, it would have earned $25.35 per share last year. Hints For Homeowners

By: JAMES FIZZELL, ASS'T. FARM ADVISER Homeowners Dial Daily KE 2-4329

The presence of unusual growths on twigs and leaves often is the result of the work of gall insects and mites. Galls come in all sizes and shapes, some large, and some small, each kind being characteristic of a particular type of creature.

The habits of gall-makers are as varied as the galls they produce. In general, galls provide a home for these creatures where they may feed, develop, and reproduce; undisturbed and protected from outside enemies.

Cynipid galls on oaks are produced by small wasps which lay an egg on a developing bud. The egg hatches into a small, legless grub which causes the gall to develop. When the insect is completely developed, it deserts the gall.

The numerous colorful, wart-like galls on the upper side of maple leaves are maple bladder galls. These galls, stimulated by microscopic mites, are very common in this area. The mites overwinter under the bud scales. When growth begins in spring, the mites move to the new leaves to produce new galls.

The second vegetable field meeting will be held Friday evening, June 23, 7 p.m., at the weed control demonstration plot on the Rich Biesboer farm just east of Glenwood. The plot is located just north of Glenwood-Lansing road, across the street from Brookwood school. Specialists in insect, disease, and weed control will be present at this meeting. The program will be informal, so bring your questions. We will stay as late as you like, however we hope the meeting will be concluded by 9 p.m.

Ornamental evergreens, particularly junipers, are being attacked by red spiders. Infected plants show browning which you may think has been caused by winter injury or lack of moisture. These pests can be controlled by spraying the plants with malathion. If the infestation is light you probably can keep it under control by spraying the plants with a heavy stream of water.

The University of Illinois Agronomy Department is rolling out the welcome mat for farmers of the state, June 28. This is the annual U. of I. Agronomy Day. Highlights of the 18 stop-tour will include reports on research in water use by crops, high population and heavy fertilization of corn, new crop varieties, and latest weed control methods. Tours will begin at 9:30 a. m., and continue through the day. Lunch will be available at the farm during the noon hour.

4-H'ers from this area will be attending 4-H Camp Shaw-Waw-Nas-See during the week of June 26-30. A wonderful program is planned for them.

Washington News Letter

By: CONG. N. M. MASON
CONGRESS SHOULD REPEAL THE RECIPROCAL TRADE AGREEMENTS ACT: When the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act was first passed, some 27 years ago, the four reasons given for its passage were: 1. That it would advance world peace; 2. That it would make for world prosperity; 3. That it would bring about amity among the nations; and 4. That it would remove world trade barriers.

It has failed to accomplish even one of those objectives. If the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act were repealed today, it would halt the present trend of American capital, American industry, and American jobs to foreign lands.

The constitution gives congress and not the Executive the authority to set tariffs. Congress should not longer shrink its responsibility. Congress should assume that responsibility and thru its arm -- the U.S. Tariff Commission -- repair the damage done by the misguided policies of the past 27 years. I feel sure this will be done within a year or so. The exportation of American jobs and industry and the ever-increasing importation of foreign-made goods to be sold on the American market should be one of the live issues in the next campaign.

If we continue any longer on the path to economic destruction -- continuing the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act -- more American capital will go overseas, more and more American businessmen will transfer their plants abroad, more and more American factories will close, and more and more American workers will be out of work.

The damage caused by galls is difficult to estimate. Damage is usually localized, and with few exceptions, is not considered serious enough to permanently damage a tree. Occasionally, maple bladder galls develop in such numbers that the leaves become distorted and are unsightly.

The control of galls is a matter of prevention rather than cure. Galls are seldom noticed until the small animal inside is well protected from any spray materials that might be used. The control measures have been worked out for only a few of the many kinds of galls. Maple bladder galls can be prevented by spraying the trees with Malathion just before they can form galls. Likewise, elm cockscomb and hockberry leaf galls can be prevented by spraying with Lindane before the leaves expand.

New systemic insecticides now under trial offer promise of complete control of gall-producing creatures.

work. It is past time to act. We must repeal the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act.

THE PRESIDENT TALKED OF "SACRIFICES": It is difficult to find in any of the President's proposals thus far the kind of sacrifices he has called for. Bigger federal benefits, higher wages, more Federal loans and grants -- this is the theme thus far of the New Frontier. The President may find that it takes more than governmental action to keep an economy moving; it takes sweat, risk, thrift, and incentive. These are not institutional, but human requirements.

FEDERAL TAX WITHHOLDING DATA FOR 1958: There are some 49,042,000 workers whose employers withhold wages for federal income tax purposes. Of these 49,042,000 workers, about 8,356,000 owe no income tax, so the amount withheld has to be refunded.

The total amount withheld for tax purposes by American employers in 1958 was roughly $27 billion. This is approximately 70 per cent of the $38,835,000,000 collected in personal income taxes. Of this amount, about $4.5 billion was refunded, leaving an individual income tax liability of $34,355,000,000.

TAX BLOCKS TO PROGRESS AND JOBS: There are four major tax blocks to progress and job creation: 1. Steeply graduated individual tax rates; 2. Excessive top rate of corporate tax; 3. Unrealistic length of lives and classification of depreciable property; and 4. Destructive rates of estate and gift taxes.

Getting rid of these tax blocks is the purpose of H. R. 2030 and H. R. 2031, sponsored by Representatives A. S. Herlong and Howard H. Baker of the House Committee on Ways and Means. The Herlong-Baker bill should be passed by Congress.

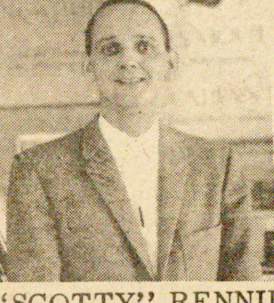

DR. MORDECAI EZEKIAL RESURRECTED: The New Frontier really reached back into the New Deal for their announcement that Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel has been tapped to become director general of the Food for Peace Program... For the benefit of those who were born 30 years too late, Dr. Ezekiel drafted the AAA farm legislation... the plan to plow under the little pigs and surplus cotton... In 1956, he headed a FAO survey team to India. It came back with a report which the Wall Street Journal described as "written in English and algebra."... Dr. Ezekiel's biography in Who's Who says he "pioneered in curvilinear multiple correlation." --From the Washington Daily News

forecast for ENERGY

Soaring production will double demand for industrial energy by 1980

How rapidly is America's industrial output expanding? Here are some clues: From 1950 to 1959, output of petrochemicals increased 216%; plastics, 173%; aluminum, 140%. Total output of business and industrial equipment has virtually doubled. Production and processing of all these requires heat and heat is energy. This is just part of the reason why America's consumption of energy will double by 1980.

Where will it come from? Much will come from present energy sources, some from new ones. Wherever produced, a large share of energy in its most efficient and usable forms will be transported via pipelines. Texas Eastern's natural gas pipelines, which stretch from the Mexican border to the Atlantic Seaboard, have capacity to fuel thousands of factories and heat millions of homes... Our Little Big Inch pipeline system, largest of its kind, delivers liquid petroleum products from Gulf Coast refineries to Midwest markets. Looking to the future, Texas Eastern is growing and diversifying today to meet tomorrow's energy needs.
